Your First Prenatal Visit

As soon as you learn that you are expecting, take a few minutes to schedule your first pre-natal appointment.

For healthy, low-risk pregnancies, we schedule the first visit around 8 weeks. However, you may need to come in earlier, especially if you want to confirm that you are pregnant.

We also recommend moms-to-be come in earlier if they have any abdominal pain, bleeding, or a medical history that needs to be discussed and followed.

Bring with you a written list of questions or concerns you may have, and feel free to have your partner or a family member come with you.

Our providers care for women during pregnancy, through birth, and during the postnatal period. We are experienced in managing high-risk pregnancies as well.

All of our babies are delivered at Baby Lane, the Labor & Delivery Unit of Lane, where more nurses care for fewer patients.

This team of highly trained, skilled nurses allows families to experience traditional childbirth in a comfortable, caring environment. Each private birthing room houses an array of high-level monitoring technology to ensure a safe and smooth delivery. Moms are encouraged to have their babies room-in, and Dads are encouraged to spend the night.

Cesareans are performed in a room designed specifically for C-section deliveries, and we have additional rooms for post-surgical patients and complicated deliveries due to diabetes, high blood pressure, or dehydration.

Experienced staff will also provide one-on-one instruction for breastfeeding, nutrition, and newborn care.
